STRONGER THAN ORIGINAL BILL

Will be Rate Measure When Returned to House

MORE DRASIC AMENDMENTS

Opponents to Free Alcohol Bill Come Out of Hiding-Biggest One Yet to Come.

MAY MODIFY PHILIPPINE TARIFF BILL

Washington, D. C., May 14.—As the rate bill is shaping itself in the final days of the struggle, it looks as though the amended measure when it goes back to the House would be much more drastic than the original Hepburn bill. One of the most important of the several amendments that have been offered is that of Senator Spooner, offered last week, which aims to prevent the endless litigation that a court review of the Commission's findings would entail. To put his plan briefly as possible, he provides that in case of an appeal to the courts from the findings of the Commission, the railroad shall pay into court the difference between the rate fixed and the rate complained of with an additional six per cent interest on the money involved. In case the court decides in favor of the complainant, the railroad is to pay the difference and the six per cent interest on the money so held up. This would if carried make the railroads almost as anxious to conclude a case as the shipper and would put an end to dilatory motions and prolonged hearings such as would otherwise be sure to follow. It is even provided that the payment shall be made to the person who has in effect paid the freight, even though he may not be the actual shipper. This would in the case of a farmer who had sold grain to an elevator based, as is frequently done, on the freight charges, to some central market point. In that case the farmer would be the beneficiary and would receive the money instead of it going to the elevator company.

with the islands, which is a natural evolution and one hoped for by many both of the Republicans and Democrats in Congress.

—oo—

Opponents of the Free Alcohol bill are coming out of the brush, so to speak, but the biggest one is still in hiding. There was a hearing before the Senate Committee last week of one George Clapperton, representing the wood alcohol interests of the northwest. It is just possible that in his evidence Mr. Clapperton tried to kill two birds, for he came out frankly and said that his opposition to the bill was that it would kill the wood alcohol industry. He said that there was $15,000,000 of capital invested in the business and that 15,000 men depended on it for a livelihood. He did not say, which is probably the truth that both of these figures were largely overstatements. But what he did say was that there was no likelihood of the bill hurting the Standard Oil Company. Now of course from a popular point of view this has been one of the most attractive features of the bill, to whack the Standard. But Mr. Clapperton says, "Tut, tut, the bill will not touch the Standard, but it will hurt us." This would render cheap alcohol none the less attractive to the public but it would take away somewhat from the glamor of the bill. However, the Standard is keeping very still, after its method whenever it can, and there was a strong suspicion at the Capitol that Mr. Clapperton might have been putting in a sideways word for the Standard and trying to render the bill less attractive on the plea that it would not hurt the Octopus after all.

EARTHQUAKE CAUSED REELFOOT LAKE

Sismic Disturbances of 1812 Made Great Ponds and Cause Rivers to Run Upstream.

Hickman, Ky., May 15.—The New Madrid earthquake, which sank New Madrid, Mo., on December 17, 1811, occurred only 25 miles below Hickman, and the earthquake which sank Reelfoot lake occurred only about ten miles away. The New Madrid earthquake was felt several hundred miles, and vibrations occurred at intervals for more than a month. It happened that Fulton's steamer, the Orleans, the first boat launched on the Ohio river, was on its way from Pittsburgh to New Orleans and was not far from New Madrid when the first shock occurred. It was under the command of Capt. Nicholas J. Roosevelt, the grandson of President Roosevelt.

Those on the boat were in great peril. The water of the river was for several hours turned upstream and the banks caved in for miles, the boat often being in great distress. Over an extent of 300 miles from the mouth of the Ohio river the ground rose and sank in great undulations. The surface broke open in fissures that trended northwest and southwest and were sometimes more than a half mile long, from which mud and water were thrown as high as the tops of trees. About one year the New Madrid distresses an earthquake sank a strip of land about thirty miles long and seven miles long and seven miles wide in the eastern part of Hickman and Fulton counties, lying about ten miles below Hickman, Ky., and that is now known as Reelfoot lake.

This lake is now widely known, and every winter hunters from all over the United States visit it, there being such a quantity of ducks and geese. The tops of trees and many stumps still exist, showing the depth it sank. In Arkansas, southwest of New Madrid, a large wooded territory sank for several miles and has since been known as "The Sunken Land," creating a lake, the waters of which find an outlet southward through the St. Francis river into the Mississippi. The tops of the trees are plainly visible fifteen or twenty feet below the surface.

Senator Cox Honored.

Louis Pilcher Puts Bullet in J. J. Peel

FIGHT IN NEWSPAPER OFFICE

Peel Had Attacked Him Because of Publication in Pilcher's Newspaper.

EDITOR WAS PUT UNDER $500 BOND.

Nicholasville, Ky., May 12.—J. J. Peel, a former policeman, and Louis Pilcher, editor of the Kentucky Democrat, which made its first appearance to-day, had a fight in the Democrat office this afternoon. The paper contained an attack on Peel, which was provoked by the injunction suit that Mr. Peel served on the Mayor and Board of Council last Thursday to prevent that body transacting any business. Pilcher was sitting in the office talking to a friend this afternoon when Peel walked in and asked: "Logie, what have I ever done to you to cause you to write about me in that manner?"

Before Mr. Pilcher could reply, Mr. Peel attacked him with his fist, and the two men engaged in a fight. Pilcher finally fell, and Peel kicked him in the head and left the office. Mr. Pilcher secured a revolver from the back room and fired two shots at Peel, who was then out on the street. The first shot struck Peel in the shoulder, the second passed through his coat. Before a third shot could be fired Pilcher was disarmed. Both were placed under arrest.

Pilcher was taken before Judge W. H. Phillips and placed under a $500 bond to appear next Thursday. Peel was tried before Magistrate Barkley and dismissed. Both men are well known throughout this section of the State, Mr. Pilcher as a newspaper man and Peel as a detective.

Men Who Harm a Town.

Mr. Walter N. McIntosh has started a new eight-page paper at Dongola, Ill., and in the first issue this gem appears:

"The men who harm a town may be found among those who oppose improvements, those who don't advertise, those who distrust public men, those who run it down to strangers, those who show no hospitality to any one, those who hate to see others make money, those who treat every stranger as an interloper, those who ask two prices for property, those who put on long faces when a stranger talks of locating, those who oppose every public enterprise that does not appear to be a personal benefit to themselves."

Hurt by Stock-pen Gate.

John Haffey, a locomotive engineer, was accidentally injured at Repton Monday morning by being struck by the gate of the stock pen as he passed it with his head and shoulders projecting out from the cab window.

He was brought here on the passenger train and taken to the office of Dr. Driskill, the company's surgeon, who dressed his wounds, and he is reported doing well. His mother lives at Henderson.

Bigamy Charge Result of Dream.

Fred Johnson was arrested in Lafayette, Ind., on a charge of bigamy as a result of a dream which was had by his first wife. In her dream her dead sister appeared and told her Johnson was married the second time. Johnson confessed.

The Circus.

The Sun Bros. Show exhibited here Tuesday according to advertisements and the exhibition was all that could be expected. There are larger shows on the road but none more popular, being free from the fakira that usually follows such aggregations and everything carried on in an honorable and modern way. The weather was ideal and early in the day the throng of people began to gather on the streets. Everything passed off nicely and pleasantly, and while the saloons did a thriving business no drunkenness or brawls were in evidence.

The show gave two performances, one in the afternoon and one at night, and at both performances the tent was crowded. This is the second time the Sun Bros. Show have exhibited here and our people are pleased with the show and its management.

Obituary.

Mrs. Emma Crayne was born in Crittenden county, Ky., January 1, 1848. She died at the home of her son-in-law, P. M. Woodall, in Yakima county, Washington, May 3, 1906, age 58 years, four months and two days. Her maiden name was Cole. She professed faith in Christ at the age of fifteen and joined the C. P. church at Piney-Fork, Ky. She was married to H. T. Crayne in 1865. To this union were born five children, four of whom survive her—J. F. Crayne, of Seldon, Kansas, Mrs. J. F. Dorroh and Bert Crayne, of Crayneville, Ky., Mrs. P. M. Woodall, of Yakima county, Washington, and Mrs. Carrie McCaslin, deceased, of Crayneville, Ky.

In 1882 Sister Crayne withdrew her membership from Piney-Fork church and with her husband united with Pleasant Hill Primitive Baptist church and remained a consistent member until death. Sister Crayne was bereft of her husband in 1882. She supported her family and saw her children all married and conveniently situated in life. March 19, 1906, she came to Yakima county, Washington, to visit her daughter, Mrs. P. M. Woodall, who had preceded her to that state. Sister Crayne had been in the state of Washington a little more than twelve months and was contemplating a visit to her native country about the first of May, when shortly before that time she was taken suddenly ill and was sick but a few days until she died. Sister Crayne was socially a mild spirited Christian lady, esteemed and admired by all who knew her.

The funeral services were held in the Adventist church, near her daughter, Mrs. P. M. Woodall's, home and were conducted by the writer after which the remains were interred in the cemetery at Zillah, Washington, followed by a large concourse of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodall hereby express their appreciation and thanks to all who so willingly and readily assisted them during the sickness, death and burial of their beloved mother.

WESTERN KENTUCKY TOBACCO GROWERS

May Accept Offer From Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Co. to Finance 1906 Crop.

Owensboro, Ky., May 14.—At a meeting here of the American Society of Equity, which is an alliance of the tobacco growers of Western Kentucky, it was decided to report favorably on the plan or offer of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company to finance the 1906 crop. The Louisville people offer $1,000,000 on the crop, advancing $5 on A, B and C grades, $4.50 on D, grade, $4 on O and II grades, for two years, until the tobacco is sold. It will take a million dollars or more to handle the crop of 1906, and Owensboro was not prepared to advance more than $150,000.

The directors of the society met in court house Thursday last and decided to hold the first annual conference of the society in Owensboro on July 10, when it is expected 7,000 people will be in the city. The society was organized at Greenville a few months ago and has made rapid strides, and is now one of the strongest farmers' organizations in the South, covering Western Kentucky and Northern Tennessee.

Louisville and Greenville were after the meeting in July, but Owensboro landed it.

Married Five Years Ago.

Miss Catherine Moore, of this city, and Mr. Chas. Perry, of Irma, were married at Shawneetown, Ill., some five years ago, but the fact was not generally known until last week, when she left for Louisville to join her husband who was there awaiting her arrival. Mr. Perry is traveling for a large concern in Paducah. They will probably reside in Lexington after visiting relatives in other parts of the State.

The remains were interred at the new cemetery Monday afternoon after the funeral service which was conducted by Rev. J. R. McAfee at the C. P. church.

No Whisky in Prescriptions.

The physicians of Lancaster have decided not to write prescriptions for whisky in the future, the tidal wave of reform having struck the capital of Garrard with telling force, and the "lid is on." The following card has been issued by the doctors: It has been reported that the physicians of Lancaster have solicited the taking out of whisky license by the druggists. We, the undersigned, emphatically deny that we have asked any one to take out license, and further pledge ourselves to write no whisky prescriptions under any circumstances.

TRAMPS AND OIL SPILLED TOGETHER

Search for Bodies and Fill Barrels With Wasing Illuminant—All Work Alike.

Paducah, Ky., May 16.—A report to the effect that three tramps were killed in the freight Central yesterday, is interesting to farmers in that vicinity and this morning at Heath, Ky., on the Illinois morning searchers began tearing into the debris of the thirteen wrecked cars to find the bodies if there.

The railroad company received no reports of any one killed and the debris of the wreck was shoved aside on the right of way to clear the track. The shattered remains of the car remain as left by the company and it is hard work tearing them up. Farmers have been busy all day searching for the bodies, but at last reports had been unsuccessful in finding anything that resembled a body.

The bursting of the oil tank enabled farmers to secure coal oil free and one farmer is said to have secured 137 gallons. He had several barrels hauled to the scene and placed his can under the tank to secure oil. They worked it together one farmer filling his can and making way for the next, each taking turn about.

Former Treasurer Sued.

Russellville, Ky., May 16.—Logan County has filed suit against former County Treasurer C. Henry Harrison and his bondsmen, the Fidelity and Guaranty Co., for $5,000 for money alleged to have been unlawfully paid out by him upon illegal warrants and orders.

HAS ALLIGATOR FARM

FLORIDA NATIVE RAISES REPTILES IN INCUBATOR.

Declares They Make Better Pets for Laulus Than Chameleons — Ext. One Another, So Food Costs Him Nothing.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Joe Frazier, who was born with a hankering to get on in the world, and who could see no better way than starting an alligator farm, has stirred the millionaire visitors at the beach by moving his whole menagerie of rawhicks down from his original lagoon. Incubating ground to the sands of the beach, where he expects to reap a fortune by selling young live alligators as watch-champs to the men and as substitutes for chameleons to the ladies. He had some difficulty in moving them recently. Some of them got out, chased the visitors off the beach and took a hand at bathing in the surf. "But," says Joe, "an alligator is as innocent as a lamb if you take him right, and take him before he takes you."

He doesn't see why anyone should object to the near presence of his pets. "Er young 'gator makes a pretty watch charm! If he is tied up by a gold chain so he can't bite," he says. "An they is a heap sight prettier than them lizards what whinna is a wargin around on their dresses."

Joe's farm, a mile or so back on the salt road, has been a favorite sight for visitors, and everyone who goes there wants to take home a basketful of young snappers, just to prove that he has been in Florida.

The big ones he allows in the yard, yawn and eat any stray dogs or cats that happen to intrude, and the females occupy their time by laying eggs. The eggs Joe digs out and places in the sun in an old canoe, which makes a fine incubator. Here they hatch out in the mellow sunshine and cowl over each other and take lessons in biting off each other's tails. One of the proprietor's favorite stories to make his visitors' eyes stick out is that alligators' eggs are fine eating, and that he has alligator eggs on board every morning.

A few years ago New York was startled by the information that General Napoléon III and Empress Eugénie Victor was put forward as a rival of his father in imperial claims, being supported by Paul de Caixanne and others. He lives in Brussels, is marginally married, and has three children.

Victor's younger brother, Prince Louis Napoleon, is preferred by a certain section of the Belgians. He was born in 1861, is a general in the Belgian army, and desires to win a daughter of the king of the Belgians, but is often opposed by the mother.

DIAL INVITATION

ESSED TO WORKING GIRLS

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Mrs. Pinkham Helps Working Girls.

DEATH OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

Sunday School Lesson for May 20, 1906

Specially Prepared for This Paper.

LESSON TEXT.—Mark 6:14-29. Memory verse, 20.

GOLDEN TEXT.—“Be not drunk with wine whereof is excess.” Eph. 5:18.

TIME.—Imprisonment of John after nearly two years of preaching took place in March or April, A. D. 28, and his beheaded just a year later, at the age of 31.

PLACE.—Jesus in Galilee with disciples.

John in prison in Machæræn, east of the Dead sea, where probably Herod's feast took place.

Comment and Suggestive Thought.

V. 14. “King Herod.” Mark, tor courtesy, styles him king. “Heard of him.” Heard of Jesus, who was attracting so much attention by his wonderful works in Galilee. “His name was spread abroad.” The apostles were journeying through Galilee, thus multiplying Jesus’ influence and extending His fame. “John the Baptist . . . the dead.” Herod was not least nominally a Sadducee, and professed to believe neither in spirits nor a resurrection.

V. 15. “Others said.” Others entertained various opinions about Jesus. With these they tried to calm Herod’s troubled conscience. “Elias.” Elijah.

“A prophet, or as one.” A new prophet, or as one bearing great resemblance to the old prophets.

V. 17. “Herod himself. Not moved by matters of state, but for purely personal reasons.” “Laid hold upon John” Arrested him. “For Herodias’ sake” because the crime for which John reproached him was with and on account of Herodias.

V. 18. “John had said unto Herod” He had repeatedly besought the research to forgive his sin, undoubtedly assuring him that even for such as he, there was forgiveness and restoration from God upon true repentance. “It is not lawful for thee to have her.” He was her uncle, and it was not lawful for those so near of kin to marry, moreover he had a wife and she a husband living at the time.

V. 19. “Had a quarrel.” Her Ver. “Set herself against him.” That is, she became the sworn enemy of the Baptist. She strongly “desired to kill him,” but “could not,” because she lacked personal authority, and Herod would not order his execution.

V. 20. “Herod feared John.” Matthew says also feared the people, for they counted John a great prophet. “Observed him.” Kept him safe “out of the reach of Herodias’ malice.” “Heard him.” Herod was a man of keen intellect, and it seems that Herod often called the prisoner from the dungeon to the palace, which was under the same roof, that he might listen to him. He “did many things,” or “was much perplexed.” Perhaps he abandoned some sins, and began the practice of some virtues.

V. 21. “A convenient day.” A day which brought Herodias opportunity for executing her purpose. “Lords, high chancery, chief estates.” The three classes mentioned were the great men of the court, of the army and of the province.

V. 22. “The daughter of Herodias.” Salome. “Dame in and danced.” In the corrupt age of Herod a feast among high dignitaries would be incomplete without the coming of one or more professional dancing-girls. In dainty costumes and with voluptuous dances, commonly accompanied by tambourines or tinkling bells, to entertain men of debased instincts. But for one of high birth to enter the banqueting hall, was considered a great sin, hence the strong expression, “herself came in.” “Please Herod.” He demanded that Salome honored him by degrading herself. Had he been sober, he would have felt horrified.

V. 23. “He awoke.” He confirmed his words by repeated oaths. “Unto the half of my kingdom.” A foolishly extravagant expression commonly used by kings, but not meant to be literally interpreted.

V. 24. “Went forth.” Left the scene of feasting to find her mother, who was in another part of the castle. “The head of John the Baptist.” This request Herod would be warranted in refusing. John’s head was of more value than the half of his kingdom, and under no just law was it his to give.

V. 25. “Straightway with haste” undoubtedly Herodias counseled great haste of all parties, lest the girl become too horrified to proffer the request, and had Herod, when sober, refuse to grant it. “By and by” immediately “in a charger.” To a platter, dish.

V. 26. “Exceedingly sorry.” Herod’s sorrow was probably as deep as he was capable of feeling, but was not, as the sequel shows, deep enough to cause him to refuse the infamous request. “Doth’s snake.” In the original the word “oath” is plural, indicating that he had made the promise repeatedly. “For their sakes.” Lest he should appear to them to be fickle and vacillating. “Reject her.” Immediately “in a charger.” To a platter, dish.

V. 27. “Exceedingly sorry.” Herod’s sorrow was probably as deep as he was capable of feeling, but was not, as the sequel shows, deep enough to cause him to refuse the infamous request. “Doth’s snake.” In the original the word “oath” is plural, indicating that he had made the promise repeatedly. “For their sakes.” Lest he should appear to them to be fickle and vacillating. “Reject her.” Immediately “in a charger.” To a platter, dish.

V. 28. “Straightway with haste” undoubtedly Herodias counseled great haste of all parties, lest the girl become too horrified to proffer the request, and had Herod, when sober, refuse to grant her request.

Practical Points.

V. 27. “There is no excuse for sin that it was done at the instigation or for the sake of another.”—Ezek. 18:20.

V. 28. If hearing the truth does not make us better, it makes us worse.—Jas. 4:17.

V. 29. Frivolous minds find pleasure in frivolous amusement. Prov. 16:21.

V. 30. Many desire the whole of the Kingdom of Heaven for a temporary pleasure.—Mark 8:36.

V. 31. That life which fulfills its mission is a success, whether its years be many or few.—John 17:14.

TRANSFORMATIONS.

Curious Results When Coffee Drinking Is Abandoned.

It is almost as hard for an old coffee drinker to quit the use of coffee as it is for a whisky or tobacco fiend to break off, except that the coffee user can quit coffee and take up Postum Food Coffee without any feeling of a loss of the morning beverage, for when Postum is well boiled and served with cream, it is really better in point of flavor than most of the coffee served nowadays, and to the taste of the connoisseur it is like the flavor of fine Java.

A great transformation takes place in the body within ten days or two weeks after coffee is left off and Postum Food Coffee used, for the reason that the poison in the coffee has been discontinued and the place it taken in liquid that contains the most powerful elements of life.

It is easy to make this test and prove the statements by changing from coffee to Postum Food Coffee.

PHONETIC PHENOMENON.

How the “O” Came to Be Left Out in the Modernized Spelling of “Phenix.”

They were talking about spelling reform and the improvements of English spelling in general, relates Success Magazine.

“There’s that very word ‘phonetic’ said one of the men; ‘that’s a sample of English spelling. The reformers call their system the ‘phonetic system’ and yet they have to spell ‘phonetic’ with a ‘ph’ in order to let people know what they mean. The very word that means spelled is as far from it as you can get.’” drawled his friend, “you’re too hard on the good old English speller. You ought to be proud of ‘phonetic.’ Why, that word is so trimmed down and dressed off, and so short that I wouldn’t know it was English if I met it alone on a blank page. You ought to teach the language for the word. It is a beautiful word. That ‘phonetic’ has been spelled like ‘dough’ and the ‘o’ like the letter in ‘roses’ and the ‘e’ like the ‘o’ in ‘dough.’ That would be a good old-style English word—phonetic, indeed. But it is coming! Phonetic spell ing is coming!” Look at that word ‘phenix.’ It is spelled ‘pheonix’ everywhere now, and I remember it always used to be ‘pheonix.’ The ‘o’ has gone. That shows.”

“Nothing!” said the operator. “What does it show? That the phenix is a bird, isn’t the phenix a bird? Yes! Well, that round thing you say was an ‘o’ was an egg. That’s all. Twice just an egg. And the phenix laid the egg. That’s all!”

BABY’S AWFUL HUMOR.

Thin Skin Formed Over Body and Under It Wets Watery Blood—Cured in One Week by Cultural Remedies.

When my little girl baby was one week old she had a skin disease. A thin skin formed over her body and under it was watery blood and when she was washed it would burst and bleed. She was in that condition for weeks, and I tried everything I could think of, but nothing did for any good. When she was three months old I took her to San Antonio to see a doctor, but the doctor we wanted to see was not at home, so my sister gave me a bottle of Castoria. Soap and half a box of Cultural Remedy, and told me to use them, which I did in time. I used them three times, and the humor began to fade, and in one week she was sound and well, and it has never returned since. I think every mother should keep the Cultural Remedies in the house. Miss H. A. Hart, Benton, Texas, July 3, 1905.

One on the Doctors.

The Boston Herald tells a story of a physician of Salem, Mass., who, talking to a group of friends, said: “I wanted to be a doctor, but my parents persuaded me to study medicine.”

“Oh, well,” reported one of the party, “such is life. Many a man with wholesale aspirations has to content himself with a retail business.”

Don’t Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them “poison.” The definition of “narcotic” is: “A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death.” The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of “Drops,” “Cordials,” “Soothing Syrups,” etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. J. W. Dinsdale, of Chicago, Ill., says: “I use your Castoria and advise its use in all families where there are children.”

Dr. Alexander E. Mintie, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: “I have frequently prescribed your Castoria and have found it a reliable and pleasant remedy for children.”

Dr. J. S. Alexander, of Omaha, Neb., says: “A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is, deserves the highest praise. I had it in use everywhere.”

Dr. J. A. McClellan, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: “I have frequently prescribed your Castoria for children and always got good results. In fact I use it in use everywhere.”

Dr. C. H. Glidden, of St. Paul, Minn., says: “My experience as a practitioner with your Castoria has been highly satisfactory, and I consider it an excellent remedy for the young.”

Dr. H. D. Denner, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: “I have used your Castoria as a purgative in the cases of children for years past with the most happy effect, and fully endorse it as a safe remedy.”

Dr. J. A. Boarman, of Kansas City, Mo., says: “Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children.”

Dr. J. J. Mackay, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: “I consider your Castoria an excellent preparation for children, being composed of reliable medicines and pleasant to the taste. A good remedy for all disturbances of the digestive organs.”

ISSUED WEEKLY.

JAS. E. CHITTENDEN,
Editor and Publisher.

SUBSCRIPTION ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

Entered as second-class matter July 15, 1904, at the postoffice at Marion, Ky., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

FRIDAY, MAY 18, 1906.

Grover Cleveland announces that he will never be presidential candidate again. This makes it practically unanimous.

The ladies in Kansas cannot vote for Governor, so that Gov. Hoch will never know whether he did just right or not when he failed to get that kiss.

A man who can tell a good story, keep an audience interested and play the fiddle would be an improvement on some of Tennessee's line of Democratic Senators.

The jury did not think John A. Moore made a masterly argument in the Henderson case, but on the contrary, from its action, it did not consider that he had made a speech.

Mr. Bryan has sent a message from Egypt to his trainers that he will "also run" for the Presidency some more if circumstances seem to demand it. How a habit does grow on a fellow.

The Missouri man who swapped a 41-year-old wife and five children for a 11-year-old wife and one child ought to have been compelled by the laws of compensation to give a jack-knife and plug of tobacco to boot.

Fiddling Bob Taylor has been chosen by the people of Tennessee, in primaries, to represent them in the United States Senate. This looks like a bad mistake. A Senator should be trained on some wind instrument.

The Senate has agreed to a bill which provides that passes may be given to "attorneys who are employed exclusively by the railroads." It will be interesting to learn how many members of Congress will be able to get passes under the rule.

The editor of the Press says Henderson cowardly assaulted him. On the trial of the case the evidence showed that the editor had provoked the difficulty by very abusive language. He had called Henderson a liar and unfairly attacked him many times through his paper, and recently accused him of being untrue to his client.

School Tax.

I will be at the office of Bourland & Haynes Thursday and Friday, May 24 and 25, 1906, for the purpose of collecting 1906 school tax for Marion Graded School district. A 5 per cent. penalty will be added to all unpaid tax after May 25. H. A. HAYNES, Treas. Marion Graded School.

It Is Dangerous to Neglect a Cold.

How often do we hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this most common ailment. It always cures and is pleasant to take. For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

Decoration Day.

Crittenden Post G. A. R. will decorate graves at old Pleasant Hill Cemetery, near Creswell in Caldwell county, on the 30th day of May. A. C. Deboe, J. N. McDowell, W. H. Coleman and W. H. James compose the present committee on arrangements and Jasper Crider will deliver the Welcome address, response by J. M. Walker. Everybody will have opportunity to speak. Come and bring provisions and flowers. J. M. WALKER, Commander.

Not as Rich as Rockefeller.

If you had all the wealth of Rockefeller, the Standard Oil magnate, you could not buy a better medicine for bowel complaints than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The most eminent physician can not prescribe a better preparation for colic and diarrhoea, both for children and adults. The uniform success of this remedy has shown it to be superior to all others. It never fails, and when reduced with water and sweetened, is pleasant to take. Every family should be supplied with it. Sold by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

Young Men and Politics.

Should a young man enter political life, and how?

This is a question which probably a million young men have been trying to solve in one way or the other since your first vote a few years ago. Have you taken a practical interest in politics, attended primaries, addressed meetings and cheerfully given your time in such work as you believe to be beneficial to public affairs? Is your interest and ability recognized under the management of a "Boss?" Suppose you should be a candidate for the assembly at Frankfort and this prove acceptable by you and was greeted with favor wherever you were known and you would be such a man as after a little experience leave the whole assembly. But no nomination would be certain without the consent of the "Boss." It would not be required that you should make downright pledges. Bossism has been refined beyond that point, but would be necessary for you to go down and see the "Boss," talk with him ten or fifteen minutes, talking over the prospects in the district, receive the assurance that your candidacy would be an agreeable man in the political game and go away with tacit understanding that in the convention the "Bosses" unseemly would bring about your nomination. But as the candidate would go away from the interview the "Boss" would understand only one thing that an alliance offensive and defensive had been made in exchange for his influence at Frankfort perhaps the young man would not be called upon to do dirty work. He would vote without suggestion for or against. He would seem to be free—unless there should be a close question in which his vote would be absolutely required. Then he would undoubtedly be called upon to "do the goods," and he would be expected to close his eyes to the corruption going around, and do all sorts of dirty work up to the hilt, whatever he could. He would ready himself to get out of Frankfort. There would be plenty of letters written which he would be compelled to write, the "Boss" would rather have a man which would attract the attention of the public and strengthen the "reformer" in his power to do mischief to public interest by giving him public confidence, but suppose that arriving in the legislature he did not pass in this line of party? Suppose he proved an irreconcileable a dangerous man? What then? His political career would be given a short shift. He would be quickly set upon by the assembly. His influence in legislation would be nil. He would be passed around, sought for an unusual and favorable charateristics and at the end of his term he would retire of course. There would be always danger that he might be a man of such strength and repute that he would become a menace to the emanation of corruptionists and by his actions go back to the people so strong as to enable him to secure re-election in spite of the machine. This is the risk the boss must incur in selecting his type of man, but he has dealt with so many such he gauged so accurately the passivity of the ordinary man when surrounded powerless and hopeless. He knew so well the insidious germs contained in the average political ambition that the call on the "Boss" having been made that modern hydra would dismiss all fear of ambitious youth's ever becoming recalcitrant. These would be the conditions as they came into view after some thought had been given the matter submitted.

What am I to do? The young man would ask. I should like to enter political life. I have an ambition to serve the state. Unless I can be regarded at least not unfavorably by W. K. I am certain to be turned down in the nominating convention regardless of my desire to serve the people of my district. But what would you do if you entered the assembly under such auspices? I would exert every effort to secure good legislation he would reply. But would you be free to do so if you arrived in official life under the favor of a boss? Would you not feel that by your visit you had given an implied promise? Would you not be under an obligation which would weigh like a millstone about your neck and after awhile perhaps sink you in the mire of corruption. But there were young Roosevelt, Parker and many others in the first instance, I've no doubt, entered politics under the favor of a boss. But don't the career of these fine young men satisfy you? To quote the favorite expression, are they not a type of Abraham Lincoln or were they bound hand and foot? Is there no entrance to political life for ambitious young men? Yes there is one which every young man should take he should go into politics from a desire to obtain for himself and his fellow voters the endless benefit which accrue under a republic. If every voter would do his full duty he would swear to himself that he would perform his full share in securing honest legislators and wise laws. If you have a business resolve to your self that you will look to it for success, for monetary rewards. But go into political life give up your spare moments to giving an interest to affairs. Go to primaries, to the conventions, municipal, county and state, if possible. Look carefully into every issue, debate it, study the men of your section, learn their true values, single out those that can be depended upon to think rightly and act rightly, those that are wrong, those that are corrupt. Above all teach yourself to think justly, be steady, do not be deflected from a right idea by business interests or friendship, or by clever words. Learn to penetrate deception. Put away all hope of reward for these efforts. They are your contributions as a citizen to the good of the state, and above all be cheerful and good humored, even with those whom you know to be in the wrong. Let the boss and his henchmen know that you may be counted as a steady influence in the decision of affairs at the primaries, at the conventions and at the polls. They gain their power by being eternally diligent in wrong doings. They must fear the man who will be eternally vigilant in wrong doing. It is improper to desire to serve the people by holding office. You should resolve to do so when the right time comes. A thoroughly independent who understands politics and the people their right policies, and their enemies such a man is what we want in congress. Yours truly, Scatella Cured After Twenty Years of Torture.

For more than twenty years M. J. B. Mayes, of 22 Clinton St., Memphis, Tenn., was tortured by pain. The pain at suffering which he experienced during this time he could not bear. Noting gradually permanent relief until he could even climb stairs, Paul Bahr, the doctor, that he had relieved the pain made sleep and rest possible, and less than one bottle has effected a permanent cure. Mr. Mayes relates his experience for the benefit of others who may be similarly afflicted. If troubled with rheuma or rheumatism why not try a 25-cent bottle of Paul Bahr and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain. Obituary.

In loving memory of Kittle Floyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Floyd. Kittle was born Nov. 1886 and died Feb. 1906, aged nine years. She had been afflicted all her life and was idolized by all the relatives. She wrestled four weeks with whooping cough and then the angel came for her. She was only a bird here, but she will blossom in the bright celestial city to enjoy sweet pence and walk the golden streets that have no end. It is sad to stand by the bedside and watch our loved ones fade away, but faith points to light beyond—not lost but gone on before. She leaves a father, mother, two brothers and five sisters.

The writer extends to the bereaved family her heart-felt sympathy. We would say weep not, grieve not, your loss is her eternal gain, but strive to behold with an eye of faith that beautiful mansion where Kittle lives.

Her life like the swift fleeting shadow,

On earth was pure and brief,

Hearing joy and goodness as it passed,

Leaving all at the parting in grief.

Convict Sentenced to be Hanged.

Louisville, Ky., May 11.—Bob Huffaker, a convict in the branch penitentiary at Louisville, sent up on a life murder charge, was today convicted in the Lyon circuit court of the murder of Ben Shirkley, and sentenced to be hanged. Shirkley was a convict who was employed in the same department with Huffaker. The killing occurred May 1, 1905.

This is one of the most remarkable cases in the history of the courts of Kentucky.

Protect Proprietary Medicines.

Did it ever occur to you that proprietary medicines are a blessing to mankind generally? The good ones have long continued sale; the poor ones have short life and soon leave the market.

If we had to depend entirely upon physicians and druggists it would be expensive and very inconvenient at times, especially in the country and at night when neither could be conveniently reached. For nearly forty years Dr. Hall's German Syrup has been used in many families, and thousands of lives of men and children have been saved by its use, when it was impossible to reach a physician. German Syrup is the best household remedy for coughs, colds, throat and lung trouble. It quickly relieves the hacking cough, lessens the phlegm, and brings sound and refreshing sleep. A Living Monument.

If we were to assemble all those who have been cured of heart disease by Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and who would to-day be in their graves had not Dr. Miles' been successful in perfecting this wonderful heart specific, they would populate a large city.

What a remarkable record—a breathing, thinking, moving monument, composed of human lives—that for which every other earthly possession is sacrificed.

The Miles Medical Co. receive thousands of letters from these people like the following:

"I feel indebted to the Dr. Miles' Heart Cure for my life. I desire to call the attention of others suffering as I did to this remarkable remedy for the heart. For a long time I had suffered from shortness of breath after any little exertion, palpitation of the heart, and pain in the region of the heart, so serious at times that I would sometimes drop dead upon the street. One day I read one of your circulars, and immediately went to your druggist and purchased two bottles of the Heart Cure, and took it according to directions, with the result that I am entirely cured. Since then I never miss an opportunity to recommend this remedy to my friends who have heart trouble; in fact I am a traveling advertisement for I am widely known in the localities."

Manager of Lebanon Democrat, Lebanon, Tenn.
